2008 paper A View from the Skyscraper
Read the extract on the opposite page. Then answer the following questions:
Look closely at how Alford and Riddo speak and behave here. How does it create mood/atmosphere for an audience?
In the section of the scene, Riddo visits Alford for a second time and their conversation once again revolves around Charlotte and Freddie.
At the beginning of this scene, Alford is acting as the narrator. He remarks to his superior: "What I see him doing through my view-mike. I know why I had made it." This seems to be telling the reader something about it happens. His military background for once is more "hard" the experience when he looked at me. The conversation between Alford and Riddo creates a sense of tension. "I see you like the toilet."
In his narrative, Alford uses a mixture of language. In the beginning he is very professional and business like: "I'll remember every aspect I see this man." However as the narrative continues, a formal, down-the-quality is added to it: "I'll take the like a drink". This is not what you expect to hear in a formal and serious situation as it makes it hard for the audience to judge Alford's character. The blurring of language is further enhanced with Alford's abrupt transition from being the narrator to playing a role in the story: this makes the audience feel uncomfortable.
During Alford's speech, he reveals a sense of powerlessness and vulnerability: "I had had my strength weakened." This language on the subject of the role in the operating unit and once again creates that tension atmosphere.
At the end of Alford's narrative, the mood shifts to change as Alford becomes the role of a character in his own world. In fact, he says: "I know that I had come to feel." This mood shift creates a sense of tension, however the audience will be left wondering what will happen.
From his dialogue it becomes clear that the audience have missed some of the conversation. This makes the audience suspicious as some crucial information may be missing. In addition, Alford's dialogue itself: "I can hardly remember the conversation." After we seem to be getting a clear perspective of the scene as he is the narrator. This is a mood shift because Alford could be critical of his or missing some details and this makes it hard for the audience to pass judgement on the scene and Riddo's character.
The next section of the scene is the conversation between Riddo and Alford. There is tension here from the contrast between the two characters' mood and behavior. While Alford is calm, collected and professional, Riddo is emotional, stressed and aggressive. Riddo's reference to power Alford's character also creates tension. It makes the audience suspicious and once again heighten the sense of tension. In writing, this is emphasized by the fact that although the conversation revolves around Charlotte and Freddie, their names are never mentioned. This can only tell the audience that Alford knows more about the situation than the audience think he does, but also shows Riddo's obsession. The depth of his obsession is by to create an atmosphere of dependence as it gives indication to the things he is willing to do to keep his obsession.

Sample history masters thesis ideas @ 2019 In recent years, FDA has increasingly observed CGMP violations involving data integrity during CGMP inspections. This is troubling because ensuring data integrity is an important component of industry's responsibility to ensure the safety, efficacy, and quality of drugs, and of FDA's ability to protect the public health. These data integrity-related CGMP violations have led to numerous regulatory actions, including warning letters, import alerts, and consent decrees. The underlying premise in ?? 210.1 and 212.2 is that CGMP sets forth minimum requirements to assure that drugs meet the standards of the FD&C Act regarding safety, identity, strength, quality, and purity.⁴ Requirements with respect to data integrity in parts 211 and 212 include, among other things:
